FRIDAY, MARCH 14, 1902.

It is reported by the Lebanon (Conn.) Gun that Democrats have no hope of securing the nominating caucus in Little Rock for Mayor, and that the rank will be given to the Republicans, after an organized effort to foster a non-partisan contest. It is safe to say that with two Republicans running there will be no Democratic ticket, and that Little Rock will have a good Mayor whichever is elected.

A move is pending in the Wisconsin Legislature to exempt the endowments of fraternal societies from taxation. Many worthy organizations of this character have no other means of support than the yearly assessments, which are usually small, and the proposed law would be a boon to them. It is not probable, however, that the bill will pass, as the Legislature is not disposed to be generous toward private corporations, and Wisconsin has a law requiring all fraternal societies to report to the Insurance Commissioner, who has the power to refuse a license to any which does not comply with the law. The Commissioner has refused licenses to several societies which have failed to make the required reports, and this has had a wholesome effect.

A bill is pending in the Illinois Legislature which would abolish the office of Fish Commissioner, and transfer the duties of the office to the Game Warden. The Commissioner has been a political appointee, and his duties have been performed by deputies, who have been appointed on the recommendation of members of the Legislature. The Game Warden is a civil service appointee, and the change would be a step toward the abolition of the spoils system in the Fish Commissioner's office. The Commissioner has been a political factor of considerable importance, and his office has been a source of much trouble to the Governor. The change would be a good one, and it is to be hoped that it will be made.

The Democratic Legislature of Georgia is going to disenfranchise a large part of the Republican vote in order to insure the success of the Democratic party, although the majority of the people of that State are probably opposed to such amendments. It will afford Republicans an opportunity to withdraw from politics, and good branding of those who do not agree with them. The Republicans of Georgia can afford to profit by the experience of those who have to deal with the Democratic machine, and avoid branding of those who do not agree with them. We will not be responsible for the consequences if Republicans in Georgia do not withdraw from politics.

A bill is pending in the Wisconsin Legislature to abolish the appointment of Notaries Public, and to provide that they shall be elected by the people. It is argued that the duties of the office are purely clerical, and that the appointments are made by the Governor on the recommendation of members of the Legislature, who are not always in a position to know the character of the applicants. The bill is opposed by the Milwaukee Bar Association, which argues that the Governor is in a better position to know the character of applicants than the people, and that the appointments are made with more care than they would be if the offices were filled by election. The bill will probably pass, as the Legislature is not disposed to be generous toward private corporations, and Wisconsin has a law requiring all fraternal societies to report to the Insurance Commissioner, who has the power to refuse a license to any which does not comply with the law. The Commissioner has refused licenses to several societies which have failed to make the required reports, and this has had a wholesome effect.

The persistent duty of the executive to denominate Mayor Snyder and some twelve hundred acknowledgments of his gratuities to the city. The election of excellent men, whose record deserves approval, and then neglecting or ignoring their services, is not the way to encourage good men to enter public life. The Mayor has been elected by a large majority, and his record is entitled to the support of the party which elected him. Standing by that record is the highest evidence of party fidelity.

It has been charged in one of the papers that the record of a certain Mr. Highland had a party career a record to be obliged to administer him. Nothing in that record is the slightest degree offensive to any decent citizen. To deny the lawyers who would be glad to have the Judge defeated for renomination, and support him for election, is to make their duty more difficult than it would be if they were left free to act. Judge Barnes is regarded as a man who will do justice between litigants, and who will not be influenced by political considerations. He has been a Democrat all his life, and has always been active in party affairs. He has been a delegate to many conventions, and is well known to the leaders of the party. He has been a member of the Democratic State Committee for many years, and has been a delegate to many conventions. He has been a member of the Democratic State Committee for many years, and has been a delegate to many conventions. He has been a member of the Democratic State Committee for many years, and has been a delegate to many conventions.

The appointment of a man, except old and sick, to let his money pass out of the hands of the Democratic party. Mr. Canning
